reverse it—"it" meaning your carbon footprint, if you ever decide to retire the 100 percent recyclable polyethylene base of Andreu World's Reverse table, offered in two sizes and five colors: Red Cayenne, white, black, Chocolate Brown, and Cement Gray. Mix and match the sculptural bases, designed by Piergiorgio Cazzaniga, with tops in any custom diameter and thickness to create proportions perfect for any interior. space 10-132

take it easy

Sleek and simple is the name of the game for Poliform's Easy table, designed by Carlo Colombo to go pretty much anywhere. Case in point, its laid-back minimalism gracefully holds its own alongside the manufacturer's Nex chairs by Mario Mazzer and Slim sideboard by Paolo Piva. Shown with glossy white lacquer and a chromed steel base, it is also available in walnut or wengé finished in matte or glossy lacquer in a variety of colors. space 110

A line of multidimensional chairs, sofas, sectionals, and tables form Cahoots, Keilhauer's new lounge series designed by EDDS. Linear elements meet corner pieces and single- and two-seaters to create circles, s-shapes, and squares that can be arranged in a multitude of landscapes for both public and private spaces. Greenguard certified for indoor air quality, the series accommodates the natural postures of laptop, netbook, and smart phone users. space 373

Summer on the Great Lakes without leaving home. Terry Hunziker's collection of chairs, planters, ottomans, sofas, and tables utilizes a composite material containing a 97 percent postconsumer recycled plastic that requires no waterproofing or staining and exhibits high color stability. Frames are bronze-powdercoated aluminum and completely recyclable; cushions are upholstered in Kelp Mesharound or Sand Big Cord welt. All furnishings are exceptionally resistant to moisture, fading, insects, splinters, warping, and other hazards of the great outdoors.
