STARCK STACKS

Philippe Starck has long been an authority on home furnishings; now, the renowned designer is showing that he knows a thing or two about convenience with the new SUTHERLAND BY STARCK ROBINWOOD DELUXE COLLECTION. The indoor- and outdoor-friendly chairs are not only stackable but beyond stylish, to boot. Available to the trade. www.sutherlandfurniture.com.

HANDIWORK

A graduate of University of Arizona and a former employee of Phoenix's Desert Botanical Garden for eight years, Scottsdale-based ceramist Jim Sudal is becoming well known in the Valley for his incredible one-of-a-kind masterpieces. Recently, Jim Sudal Ceramic Design was commissioned to fashion a 5-by-5, 375-pound piece—aptly named Butterflies & Bees—for Muhammad Ali's Paradise Valley home, taking more than 900 hours to design and create. In addition to murals such as Ali's, Sudal also crafts stunning benches, tables, tiles and more.

MOD SQUAD

Richard Schultz, known as the designer behind the iconic 1966 furniture line, has introduced the new and delightfully modern Mateo Collection. The contemporary collection, featuring a dining chair; a lounge chair, a chaise, a chaise and a half and six coffee- and dining-table sizes, is comprised of stainless steel frames with mesh or sling fabric in a variety of colors. Prices start at $1,425. www.richardschultz.com

AMAZING VASE

Using a traditional Venetian glassblowing technique called “a cane,” artist Tracy Glover created the vibrant Licorice Stick Vases ($585). The lovely Lifesaver and Santa Fe colorways—displaying pretty reds and oranges—ooze springtime sophistication. Valerianne of Scottsdale.
