

MAY-JUNE 2010

VERANDA

TRADE SECRETS

exotic aquatic

COOL

The gracious neoclassical appointments of the Atlanta St. Regis Hotel's pool piazza remind us that soon it will be time to pack the sunscreen. Time to spruce up the patio, pool and backyard. With sectionals and chaises so comfy they won't turn you loose, the casual furniture industry is committed to making the outdoor experience rewarding. And so is well-established upholsterer Lee Industries, which entered the market with the unexpected—a slipper chair—adding a new dimension to the comfort quotient for exteriors. BACK ROW, LEFT TO RIGHT: Janus et Cie's Azimuth Linear club chair, designed by architect Michael Vanderbyl, with aluminum framing. Lee Industries' outdoor Mimosa Dining chair from its Uncovered Collection, shown in Sunbrella fabric, has a built-in drain in the seat deck and is mildew resistant. On chair is Williams-Sonoma Home's blue and white Mosaic pillow. Sutherland's Great Lakes armless chaise in chalk finish with cushions in Perennials' "Classico." FRONT: Dedon's Satellite white side table, designed by Jean-Marie Massaud, has a ceramic base with a high-pressure laminate top. PHOTOGRAPHY BY EMILY FOLLOWILL PRODUCED AND WRITTEN BY DEBORAH SANDERS AND JORDAN BARKIN STYLED BY RICH MICHELS